ABOUT THIS WORK

Sports Editorial

Sports photography trains you to anticipate — to already be in position before the action exists. The Justin Morrow portrait shows what's possible when athlete photography goes beyond sideline coverage. The Wembanyama / Popovich bench moment from his rookie season and the Messi pregame practice at BMO Field show the same instinct applied to two of the most globally recognized current names in their sports.

COVERAGE STRENGTHS

- Athlete portraiture with a polished editorial point of view
- Field action, contact, timing, and movement across live sports environments
- Images that support editorial coverage, team media, social, and sponsor recap use
- Multi-sport range across soccer, basketball, athlete branding, and street sport moments
- Clean visual storytelling for teams, athletes, publications, and sports-adjacent brands

A sports editorial selection built around anticipation, movement, athlete presence, and publishable frames.
